Call for Papers – North American Energy Policy and Strategy

The Canada-United States Law Journal, published by Case Western University School of Law in association with the Canada-United States Law Institute, is now accepting submissions for Volume 36 No. 2 of its Review, due to be published in November 2011.

Articles of 25-35 pages on topical issues in international law are welcomed. Submissions should relate to the energy and environmental policies of Canada and the United States, and may be in areas of Energy Policy and Theory, Public International Law, Private International Law, Criminal Law, World Trade Organization Law, International Arbitration, or Economic Law.

The closing date for submissions is July 15, 2011. Submissions should be in English and must be written in accordance with The Bluebook, 19th Edition.

Manuscripts should be submitted electronically via e-mail. Submissions should take the form of attachments formatted in Microsoft Word and should be emailed to cusli@case.edu with the subject line "CUSLJ Submission 2011."

Please address any questions to Keith Edmund White at Keith.E.White@case.edu or cusli@case.edu. Past editions of the Canada-United States Law Journal are available at <http://cusli.org/lawjournals/lawjournal.html>.
